Cats Grab 7th Place In UP Poll

BRIGHAM YOUNG University's basketball team was rated the nation's seventh best in United Press weekly nation-wide coaches' poll Tuesday

The Cougars were ranked eighth in the Associated Press and Coach Stan Watts' team was tenth in both polls last week

Utah was ranked third by the Associated Press to give the Skyline Conference two teams in the first ten. The only other conference to equal this was the Southeastern conference, with Alabama ranked fifth and Vanderbilt ninth

SCHEDULED for this weekend at the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse is a two game series between the Cats and the University of Colorado

Sports writers and sportscasters turned in 100 ballots and North Carolina State got heavy support to take second place with 640 points. The Wolfpack displaced Kentucky, second in pre-season balloting

IOWA, RANKED No 4 this week was the only outfit in the top 10 teams to play Monday night. Colorado, defending Big Seven Conference champion, ran its record to 3-0 by defeating the Big Ten Titleholders, 72-57. The poll was based on games through Dec 10

Kentucky was defeated by Temple, 73-61, Saturday and skidded from second to No 12. Temple, previously unranked, moved into the No 11 spot

SAN FRANCISCO, easy winner of three straight and boasting a victory string of 29 in a row, won the NCAA championship last season

Money Slated for Hikes In Faculty Member Pay

BRIGHAM YOUNG University has been granted more than a million dollars by the Ford Foundation to be used for faculty pay raises in the next 10 years

The $1 080 100 grant was announced Monday night when the Ford Foundation revealed its plans to give half a-billion dollars to privately supported colleges universities and hospitals in the largest philanthropic grant program in history

BYU's GRANT will be a 10 year endowment, with interest to be used exclusively for increasing teacher's salaries. After 10 years the University may use the money as it sees fit

President Ernest L Wilkinson, in Washington D C, on business called the University to "express to Ford Foundation our deepest gratitude for this magnificent gift"

"This generosity reaffirms my faith in the American system of free enterprise when administered properly and thoughtfully by a great concern like the Ford Company

PRES. WILKINSON is planning to go to New York Tuesday to confer with Ford Foundation officials concerning provisions of the grant and to "pledge our sincere desire to carry out their trust in our endeavors"

There was no indication as to the possible amount of the interest payments on the endowment fund. Brigham Young University has approximately 400 faculty members

Half of the grant is to be paid by next July, and the rest by the next year, according to an nouncement from the Foundation

"WE FEEL IT is altogether fitting that a pioneer in the automobile industry should join hands with a pioneer university in pioneering ventures in education. Brigham Young University is engaged in programs which will deeply penetrate the present frontiers of knowledge and training for the elevation of mankind" Pres Wilkinson said

Evidences of BYU's "pioneering" he pointed out included the unique College of Family Living, and the new colleges of Humanities and Social Sciences, Physical and Engineering Sciences, and Recreation, Physical and Health Education and Athletics, all different in organization from most universities

BYU WAS ONE of 36 colleges and universities receiving more than a million dollars. Two other Utah colleges received grants from the $210 million allocation which provided for a grant to each of the country's 615 regionally accredited privately supported, four-year institutions

College of St Mary-of-the-Wasatch and Westminster College, both in Salt Lake City were given $59,000 and $78 000 respectively.

Donation Cited As Beginning Of BYU Fund

by Virginia Brinkerhoff
Universe Campus Editor

BRIGHAM YOUNG University administrators Tuesday viewed the more-than-a million dollar Ford Foundation grant as a kick off to the new "Brigham Young University Fund" a revolutionary money raising program instituted this month

The "fund" was announced this month by the Alumni Association which has been delegated to carry out the first year's donation-solicitation program

Before the Fund was approved last March BYU's policy had discouraged solicitation of contributions except for particular projects. In March the Board of Trustees outlined a continuous drive and seeking grants from industry and friends of the University according to Raymond E Beckham alumni executive secretary

BECKHAM said a BYU Fund director will be added to the administration to direct the work. He said appointment is expected by next summer. In the mean time Pres Wilkinson has assumed the position

The alumni program was selected to start the Fund drive because many industries and individuals base their contributions on the amount the alumni contribute, Beckham said

He said several corporations now are considering a program such as General Electric Company uses. G E matches each dollar given by a G E employee to his alma mater. BYU recently received a $400 donation matched by $400 from G E

BYU HAS occasionally run into a "why help you when you don't help yourself" attitude in negotiations with industry because of the no-alumni solicitation policy, Beckham said.

However, the fact that BYU is partially supported by tithing free donation by members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, has often helped to counteract this disadvantage by winning favor with philanthropists, he said

The alumni association intends to contact 20,000 alumni during the first fund drive this year. There are about 80 000 living alumni, but many cannot be contacted until the current intensive research program locates their adresses. Beckham estimated it would cost 25 cents a name to locate these alumni, but said it would be "worth it"

"IF WE CAN establish the habit of giving it will be a springboard to greater things," he said. If the program follows the trend in other universities BYU's alumni may be contributing half a million dollars yearly in 10-12 years

At present the alumni contributions will be used entirely for current expenditures. Beckham said that some may be set aside for an endowment fund later his year, Coach H B (Bebe) 's Golden Herd have trounc Oregon State, Oregon, and night upset fourth-ranked a, 60-57.

Colorado will have a starting that averages 6-4, including rge Hannah, 6-7 center, Jim glos, 6-4 guard, Mike Mans- d, 6-4 guard, and Mel Coff- n, 6 3 forward.

The Buffs utilize a tight de- fensive style of game, using a switching man-to-man defense and attacking with a deliberate offense The tremendous height of the Colorado quint has en- abled them to control the back- boards in their three victories to date

Cougar Tricks

Meanwhile, Coach Stan Watts hopes to have a couple of tricks up his sleeve for the Buffs The Cougar mentor hopes to have his tall men, Hersh Pedersen, John Benson, Ed Pinegar, and Dave Lewis, functioning well off the backboards in order to counter act the Buff size

Thus far, BYU has relied on a scorching fast break that has looked great at times, ragged at other intervals Also, the Cats have thrown up a tough de- fense at UCLA and Oregon to thwart their touted Coast foes

Tebbs Sparkles

Terrible Terry Tebbs, 5 8 guard, has sparked the Brigham offense with an average of 22 points per game Tebbs has re- ceived considerable assistance from Pinegar and Pedersen in the scoring column

Also sparkling with fine per- formances have been Harry An- derson, fast guard, and high- scoring Lynn Rowe, flashy for- ward.

Coach Watts is fully cognizant of the Colorado five's power and has been drilling his charges to the utmost for the contests.

The Cougars also have a num- ber seven ranking to protect, as the UP Wire Service have ac- corded the Cats this high rating

Also, BYU has something of a score to settle with the Buffs who rolled up scores of 88-66 and 65-46 against the Cats at Boulder last year.

WHY ADVERTISEMENTS IN THE UNIVERSE?

Brigham Young University students have indicated from time to time in surveys and informal remarks that they would prefer less advertising in the Universe. Actually some of us on the staff would prefer it that way ourselves, and we felt that we owe an explanation to you, our patrons. During the current quarter we have made the following advancements on the Universe:

- ★ Publication of a daily Universe
- ★ Circulation to every residence door on campus
- ★ An increase in the number of issues printed to meet enrollment increases
- ★ Organizations within the Church to send Universes free to servicemen and missionaries
- ★ Reductions in mailing rates to servicemen and missionaries
- ★ Addition of Pogo cartoon strip and other features to the Universe
- ★ Expansion of circulation and editorial staffs to facilitate immediate distribution on the latest campus national and international news

We on the staff have also many other hopes plans and dreams of developing the Universe to a high status of national journalistic prominence that our rapidly expanding University warrants Many Universe readers would think that these progressive moves to provide better and faster service and more complete coverage have resulted in larger financial allocations from the student activity funds,

However, this is not the case. The daily Universe is being published under the same allocation that we received when we published twice weekly. In fact, we have actually stayed considerably under our budget to date this year. This has been made possible only by an increase in the sale of advertising to campus, local and national concerns In addition, students interested in the field of advertising as a vocation now have the opportunity to gain experience in advertisement sales and lay out under conditions similar to those on a commercial publication

We hope that you share our enthusiasm and our desire to produce an increasingly better Universe and in the final publication of 1955 we wish you a happy vacation when you return from your homes

by Pat Bringhurst — Universe Staff Writer

BRIGHAM YOUNG University students traveling home for Christmas are warned that this is the most dangerous time of the year for driving

Bad weather, poor road conditions, and students hurrying to get home make it imperative that every driver exercise extreme caution

EXCESSIVE SPEED is listed as the number one factor contributing to accidents Students are urged to carefully consider road and driving conditions and to gauge their speed accordingly

Student drivers should remember safety rules not only for the Christmas holiday, but throughout the year Provo Police Department records show that approximately 196 BYU students were involved in local accidents during the 1954-55 school year The most accidents occurred in February and the least in June

THIS YEAR'S record indicates that BYU students have been involved in 73 accidents compared to 55 for the same period last year

Lt Ellis W Mower, Provo Police Department, offered several suggestions to all drivers (1) Be ready and willing to yield the right-of-way at unprotected intersections, (2) Keep mind and eyes constantly on the road and driving—driving is a full time job, (3) Avoid following other cars too closely, especially when road conditions make sudden stops hazardous

UTAH STATISTICS show that 209 persons were killed in automobile accidents last year To date this year 187 persons have lost their lives in traffic accidents in comparison to 182 last year at this time

Leading cause of traffic deaths is head-on collisions with accidents involving pedestrians listed second

PEDESTRIANS are urged to exercise caution at all times and to avoid jay-walking Jay-walking and other improper pedestrian actions is listed as fifth in contributing factors to traffic deaths Walk facing traffic whenever possible and wear white when it is necessary to walk at night

More than a thousand accidents occurred in Provo last year Twenty-seven accidents occurred at 5th West and 12th North Other bad intersections are 8th North and 5th West, 5th North and 5th West, 1st North and 5th West, 3rd South and University Ave , and 7th East and 3rd South

TWO FATAL accidents this year in Provo have claimed the lives of two children Since the invention of the automobile more people have been killed in traffic accidents than in all the wars fought during the same period

Last year there were 10,000,000 traffic accidents in the United States Thirty-six thousand people were killed—one every 15 minutes Over one million were injured—one every 25 seconds The cost in medical bills, property loss and other expenses including lost wages exceeded four billion dollars

BYU Ski Program Offered for Winter

The Brigham Young University ski program will be in operation again this year, according to Cyntha A Cowan, director This program is open to both men and women students

Students registering for this class will be harged a $10 fee at the time of registration Each student must also provide his own equipment

The ski classes will meet the first week of winter quarter.

Students Remaining For Christmas May Earn Correspondence Credit

Brigham Young University students who will be on campus during the holidays may earn as much as three hours of credit in certain subjects through correspondence, according to the Extension Division

The Home Study department does not recommend that students make application for this sort of a program except (a) where students lack one or two hours of credit which they must obtain in order to graduate in the Spring, (b) where the subjects pursued tend themselves to intensive study, (c) where the student has time on his hands during the holiday period and wished to use the time in this manner, or (d) where the Home Study teacher interviews the prospective student and is willing to accept the lessons.

Students who fail to complete the Home Study course in the time allotted to the holiday period cannot carry this course into the regular winter without permission of the registering Dean
